

Researching Women

- Most records are left by men.
- It's hard to pick out the details of your female ancestors and construct the story of their life.
- But it can be done.

The Key?

Cluster Research.

Study the people around them

Start with the Basics.

Map you ancestor by time and place.

Then decide what question you are trying to answer.

Our Story Begins

In 1920, Georgie is living with her husband James on a farm they owned on Kings Mountain Road in Crowder Mountain, North Carolina. They live with 3 daughters, Lela, Jennie and Daisy and 4 sons, Boyce, Floyd, Thomas and Robert. The boys and oldest daughter worked the farm. Later that year, James and Georgie added another daughter, Eva, to the family. In 1922, their fifth son Otto is born.

But December 27, 1922 found James Payne suffering from influenza and pneumonia and on January 5, 1923 he died leaving his wife and 9 children. Five years later, tragedy strikes the family again. In November 1927 Georgie was suffering from pneumonia and on February 3, 1928 she also died.

And in 1930, 8 of the brothers and sisters are living together on the family farm without their parents.

Georgia Eva Baxter Payne

Georgia was born in 1880 in Lincoln County, North Carolina, the daughter of Peter Franklin Baxter and Mary Alexander. She had an older sister Sarah, and two older brothers, Thomas and William.

When she was 4, her mother died. A year later her father remarried Lucinda Jane Carpenter and had 7 more children. Georgia's father died in 1897 when she was 17. It is unclear where she went at that point, but she likely ended up in Gaston County where her sister Sallie was living with her husband Boyce Payseur.

At the age of 22, she married James Robert Payne in Gaston County.

Is this 100% proven?

No.

But are we on the right track?

Most likely.

So what did we do?

Determined the question we wanted answered.

Created a basic timeline to determine where that person lived and who with.

Developed a theory on what the answer might be.

Picked documents that might have the answer, based on time and location.

And then there were the children....

- Ruth Louise (1908-1990) who changed her name to Gary Delisser, became an artist, painting a portrait of Franklin Delano Roosevelt among others. She married Donald Dick Delisser in New York on May 9th 1941 and they hobnobbed with Hollywood celebrities and lived quite an interesting life.
- James Austin (1910-1998) who married Annie Lineriux Boone on November 12th 1933. He was successful business man and left behind a foundation.
- Mary Sue (1912-1967) who worked as a copy editor before marrying William Franklin Gaines who was a newspaper editor in Greenville, South Carolina.

And then there were the children....

- William (1917-1917) who was born in Henrietta, NC and died 6 days later.
- Howard Arthur (1919-1992) who married multiple times and worked as radio broadcaster in the 1940's and went on to be part owner in National Welders Supply Company.
- Michael Conrad (1926-1994) who served in World War II and who according to my uncle was an actor and was the "fun" uncle.

What can we say about Sudie...

Sarah Sudie Hamrick, daughter of James Marida Hamrick and Della Parthenia Hopper was born in North Carolina in 1891. At the age of 15 she married James "Jacob" Austin Turner in Henrietta, North Carolina.

Over the next 50 years she and her husband moved to various places in western North Carolina while he tried his hand at running and working at a variety of occupations.

She raised 6 creative children who excelled in a variety of professions.

After her husband's death in 1959, she lived her remaining 19 years in Charlotte.
